A NEW ERA

With the publishing of this week's edition of The Citizen our old reliable Miehle sheet-fed cylinder whose last patents date from the turn of the century, will fall silent. Each week since November of 1956 it has groaned into action to print The Citizen. Its predecessor, a slightly larger Campbell cylinder press of even earlier vintage is believed to have been in our shop at the founding of The Bethel News in June of 1895. If our belief is correct, for over 60 years the original press produced The News and later The Citizen, until it gave up the ghost one afternoon in August of 1956. From that day until November of that year the paper was printed on a smaller press in the plant two pages at a time.

Next week The Citizen will move into a new era with the paper being printed on the offset press of the Lewiston Sun-Journal. Type-setting will be done in our plant utilizing our recently acquired computerized equipment as will layout and paste-up, with the completed pages then being taken to Lewiston for insertion of photographs, making of plates and printing.

No longer will our neighbors on Upper Main Street be "serenaded" on sultry summer evenings by the rhythmic "thump-thump" of The Citizen's rumbling press. Thirty years ago, Bethel's first town manager, O.T. Rozelle said he could tell when he could get his paper on Thursday afternoon by noting when the building stopped shaking. The earlier Campbell made more noise and vibrated the venerable Cole Block much more than the Miehle.

Starting next week, The Citizen will be published on Wednesdays. The new publication schedule necessitates earlier deadlines with display and classified ads together with local notices due in our office by 5 p.m. Mondays. Our correspondents are to have their items in by Saturday noon. Because of the stringent time limits imposed by the early Wednesday morning printing 50 miles away,

Andover residents approve continued driveway plowing

Andover town meeting voters told their officials in no uncertain terms last Saturday that they wanted the policy of using town plows to clear private driveways to remain in effect.

The selectmen, in their report to the town, said, "This year we have received many complaints regarding the plowing of driveways. Everyone wants theirs to be first. The plowing of driveways uses a public dollar for a private interest, and is illegal. Yet because it has always been done in Andover, the selectmen have gone along with the 'will of the people.' The selectmen and the road commissioner have discussed this issue on several occasions and all of us would like to see the practice discontinued."

But the measure to do away with the plowing received affirmative votes by only 15 of the approximately 50 registered voters at the meeting. Opposition to curtailing the plowing of private driveways came from those who argued that it was a nice tradition and was especially helpful for senior citizens.

Voters reversed the recommendations of town officials on two other articles as well. Instead of the $14,000 for the Fire Department recommended by officials, voters, at the suggestion of Fire Chief Kerry Merrill, brought the figure up to $15,500. That is in continued on Page Eight very little if any leeway can be afforded the deadlines.

As one of the last hot-metal letterpress newspapers in the northeast The Citizen has, in the past few months, been a subject of media attention, with coverage on public radio and WMTW, and in the Maine Sunday Telegram, Lewiston Sun, Sunday, Down East, Providence Sunday Journal, Magnetic North, and our neighbor to the south, the Norway Advertiser. Last Thursday we were visited by a reporter and photographer from UPI and on Wednesday of this week a reporter and cameraman from WCHS-TV. This could be pretty heady stuff for a small country weekly which only a few short months ago was relatively unknown outside its "little corner of the world." jkb

RAILROAD MUSEUM MEETING POSTPONED TO MARCH 12

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors decided Tuesday morning to cancel the railroad museum organizational meeting scheduled for that night at the Bethel Inn. The directors rescheduled the meeting to this coming Tuesday (March 12), 7 p.m., at the Bethel Inn.

Secretary Wendie Gray reported she had an inquiry from AAA in Florida for information on the Bethel area.

The board will meet next Tuesday morning at 7:30, at the home of Bernie Wideman.

Newry voters meet in new town office

Newry's Annual Town Meeting was held at the new Municipal Building Monday evening, with a good attendance. The meeting was called to order by June Swan, town clerk. Stephen Wight was elected moderator.

All officers were re-elected without opposition, as follows: town clerk and treasurer, June Swan; first selectman, Stephen Wight; second, Roger E. Hanscom; Third, Lee Swan. Selectmen also serve as assessors, fence viewers, and surveyors of wood and lumber. Tax collector, Mary B. Tripp; dog officers, Alan Fleet and Bonnie Learned; sexton, Nancy Noppa; road commissioner, Marshall Fleet; school district director (one year), Robin Fraser.

It was voted to allow a two percent discount on taxes paid within 30 days, and to charge interest at the rate of one percent per month, continued on Page Five GREENWOOD MODERATOR Raymond W. Seames calls for a show of hands on one of the questions that faced Greenwood town meeting voters on Saturday morning.

Greenwood businessmen thwarted in bid for town transfer station keys

Forty-one voters gathered at the Greenwood Town Hall in Locke Mills for the Annual Town Meeting on Saturday, March 2. State Senator Don Twitchell and Rep. Harry Walker sat in at the morning half of the meeting, together with Selectman Frank Bean of Woodstock.

Raymond W. Seames was elected moderator for the meeting. This was Mr. Seames' 10th year as moderator for the town.

Voters re-elected the following town officials: Phyllis Coolidge, as tax collector, town clerk, treasurer and registrar of voters; Norman Millott as selectman and overseer of the poor, for a term of three years; Denise Swan as deputy clerk for one year. Raymond W. Seames was re-elected road commissioner for the ensuing year.

Nancy Dewing was elected to serve on the Board of Directors of SAD 44 for one year. The three-year position on the board is still open until April. Greenwood residents are concerned that if the position isn't filled they won't be properly represented at the school board meetings.

Greenwood voters passed articles to raise and appropriate money for new equipment for the town, such as an Apple computer for tax purposes, a highway sweeper, and future fire equipment purchased on Page Eight

West Paris voters turn thumbs down on building permit requirement

As expected, a move by town officials to institute a system of building permits in West Paris was the issue at town meeting on Tuesday night.

And, as expected, the proposal failed miserably — garnering less than one quarter of the vote — as it had last year and the year before.

As the cheers that greeted the "no" vote faded, many of the nearly 100 residents who had filled the Agnes Gray Elementary School Gym began to filter out.

The heavy turnout was praised by Moderator Vernon Inman, who called it an example of West Paris, improving on its cousin, Paris.

Moderator Inman, in opening the meeting, had told the voters, "This is your last vestige of democracy. This is where you have the opportunity to confront your town officials and get an answer, if you can."

Voters had lots of questions when it came to the proposal to institute a system of building permits, and they didn't like the answers they received from town officials. In response to the repeated question of "Why," Planning Board Chairman Philip Merrill said a system of building permits, with anyone doing more than $2,500 worth of improvements having to get a permit, would help

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING IN BETHEL TO CONSIDER AMBULANCE HOUSING

Bethel's new town manager, Rodney Lynch, formerly an Auburn city official, was sworn in Monday night and immediately took part in dealing with the traditional problems facing the town: training quarters for the BEARS, and what to do about the aging grader.

On the first issue, the selectmen decided to hold a special town meeting to seek funding for an ambulance garage and training room, to be built on the town garage lot on Cross Street. The cost of construction was estimated by the architect at $56,000. Architect fees would be 10 percent of that, and interest charges on the bank loan that would be needed would combine to yield a final figure that Chairman Arlan Jodrey said would cost the town about $25,000 a year for five years.

Facilities Committee Chairman Rollie Glines told the selectmen and the BEARS volunteers in the audience, "We've finally come up with this (after months of discussion), and I think we've done a good job."

The architect's drawing shows a 34 x 52 foot building with a two-bay garage and a training room continued on Page Five

Woodstock voters cautious on change of gov't format

At their annual town meeting Monday evening, March 4, the voters of Woodstock dispensed with the town warrant in a matter of less than two hours. There were few surprises in the voting.

First, most of the incumbent town officers were re-elected. With Frank Bean serving as moderator, Pam House was re-elected town clerk, town treasurer, and tax collector; Clifford York, selectman; Ken Koskela, a full term as road commissioner; Eva Twitchell, school director; Kay McAllister, library trustee; and Larry Whitman, fire warden. Moreover, there was minimal discussion on raising wages for town officials for the coming year.

However, two articles sparked some controversy. The town manager form of government occasioned considerable debate. Rather than to pass the article calling for the establishment of a town manager system, the voters amended it to call for "researching" such a move with a committee to report on the matter next January. In addition, an article al-

Safety Tip.
When you get a small cut or wound you should make sure that you wash it out good with soap and water and cover it with a sterile dressing and bandage it. If it is a large enough wound to require stitches all you have to do is to cover it with a sterile dressing, bandage, and get to a doctor. The wound will be thoroughly cleaned there. Do not wait if you think you will need stitches. The quicker this is taken care of the better. The chances of infection will be reduced.

Rabbit is on the menu once again, after an absence of several weeks.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Dorothea Hooper in her passing. She was my school mate at old Woodstock High.

Congratulations to A.T.C. Robert Isley and Mrs. Isley on their recent marriage. He is still stationed at Griffis AFB, New York. He is looking forward to a few days furlough and will visit at North Paris.

Eveline was at her doctor's for treatment for the shingles and is some better at this writing but the pain is still bad. He was very encouraging, telling me it could last two months and maybe longer. The treatment helps my asthma and emphysema so less oxygen is needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, Tyngsboro, Mass., spent the week end at the Reidy's trailer, introducing their new son to the country. Hope he didn't get cold. Joe Vatcher turned the heat on early.

Mrs. Sarah Grover is confined to her home by illness.

Albert Nelson Jr. went to Missouri for a few days on business for the tannery. He is one of the foremen there.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Grant went to North Lovell Wednesday night for supper at a restaurant there.

The town reports are out, so I guess spring is just around the corner.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heino of Melrose, Mass., visited her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Tripp over the week end.

Several of the daughters of Civil War veterans attended the patriotic gatherings at Oxford Sunday. Donald McAllister, a native of this town was the speaker.

Mrs. Eloise Vail has returned home after spending a month with her daughter in Florida.

Albert Nelson Sr., who has been ill, is feeling better and able to go out once more.

The Daughters of Veterans of the Civil War had their meeting at one of their members homes in Norway Wednesday evening.

Sent in by Viva Whitman:

A pretty sunny, but cold morning this Thursday morning as I sit down to type. A little windy, but not as much. A little windy, when the lights went out, we wondered if the wind had blown a tree down on the lines, but don't know the reason they went out, so far. Anyway, we were left in the dark so lighted the kerosene lamps and got things done that had to be done and went to bed. Didn't need lights that way.

Russell is still keeping his bed company most of the time. It takes a long time to get over a broken blood vessel for him and he is getting sick of lying around. However, when it hurts one to sit any length of time, one lies down instead. The coloring is fading a lot in his foot and leg, but it was a real pretty purple for a while. Of course he has to mix a little yellow with the other colors to make it look like a rainbow. We hope the soreness goes away soon, but one of these things takes time and always a little longer than one likes them to.

Last Saturday night was Bear River Grange night and even though it was foggy, I drove to Bryant Pond and went from there to Newry with Paul Billings. Verna Swan went along to keep us company. It didn't seem so foggy up that way as it did on High Street.

Had a nice supper and a good meeting as we had several things to discuss. I hope some of you who may read my writing are Grange members and will circle May 4 on your calendars. We are going to have a special open meeting to see what we are going to do about the Grange as we don't have many members attend and lots of things can't be a meeting after going so far to get to the hall. Also as the treasury doesn't go up very high, we wonder about the future and want to talk about it.

So please, any of you who are able, please circle that date and come to the meeting at 7 p.m. to help us decide what to do. We need all who are able to attend, to come and help us. What is the future of them.

Went to town Wednesday afternoon with Grace and got groceries. She was going down, so went to keep her company and got groceries at the same time. It saved me having to drive with that foolish leg paining me, so I was most grateful.

Have you ever washed a floor when you hadn't intended to? I did on Tuesday evening. Lawrence had told us on Saturday that he intended to put a tank down by the well, so we better have some water on hand to use while it was being done. Sunday. No one was available to help him and he needed some parts, too, so it didn't get done on Sunday as he had planned. I had left the water in the canners and had filled a waste basket and had it on the shelf in the kitchen. I had turned it around earlier in the evening, Tuesday and thought it was back on the shelf far enough so left it. I was sitting in the living room watching T. V. and I heard a noise and the splash of water. What a mess. Everything was soaked and so the floor, rug by the sink and anything else in the way, got washed before I got water all taken up from the floor. I had intended washing the floor before the week was out, but got it washed earlier than I had planned. It was funny but not funny if you know what I mean. After keeping the water that long and waiting for him to get things done and then have it go onto the floor; I guess I did a little muttering before I got it all mopped up. Anyway, the floor got a coat of mop and glow the next morning and looks nice and shiny, so maybe that was the way I was supposed to get the floor washed. That's the way it happened, whether it was right or not. Hope the rest of you have better luck getting yours washed when you want, instead of when you want to be doing something else.

Bear River Grange? We just don't know at this time. There are several of us who have to travel so far and then not be able to have a meeting, makes it very discouraging. We are more than willing to try to keep it going if we have help from the folks who live near, but why should we put ourselves out to do it all, when we have so far to go to get there?

Got stuck right in my own doorway when I came home Saturday night. It is rather soft and I backed too near the snow and got one hind wheel on ice so couldn't go anywhere. I left it right there until Sunday morning and after some digging, I got unstuck and don't intend to try to turn around in the yard the same as we have been until the ground hardens again. I don't like to back into the yard as I can't see too well and we can't see the cars coming over the knoll above us, so we try to drive into the yard and turn around. Guess I'll have to change my ways for a while anyway. I don't like getting stuck. Of course, the spade I wanted was up in a shed where there had been no path shoveled, so I went to get it and in the process, twisted my leg so have been having a good time with that. It never rains but it pours, so the saying goes, and I guess that is right.

Was so sorry to hear of our cousin losing his son and not being able to attend the funeral. We have always tried to go and pay our respects, but was just unable to do at this time. I hope he knows our thoughts were with the family and we hope for a better future for them.

Went to town Wednesday afternoon with Grace and got groceries. She was going down, so went to keep her company and got groceries at the same time. It saved me having to drive with that foolish leg paining me, so I was most grateful.

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

On Thursday morning, we had our first good crust. At 8:30 I left to hike to the farm fields and a bit of Noyes Mountain. My thermometer read plus 10 degrees and the sun was shining. At first I cautiously tried the bulldozer road beyond the shed. All was solid walking so I became bold and hurried on.

There was a gentle puff of wind and a leaf in more of a hurry than I, sped by, veering on its voyage. It rested by a small gray rock, tipping this way and that, as if at any moment it might fly. The wind kept its same course but the leaf remained.

I passed through the gate and turned right to the field. I passed the home of the weather prophet, the woodchuck. If his alarm clock awakened him early February, there was no sign of him.

In field two I stopped to view the mountains and to chat with a squirrel. We were the only two out. For a short time I stood to enjoy the freshness of the air, then went to field three.

Here I first had to take a picture of the hills and to single out those I had climbed in past years, remembering all the little incidents which took place especially on Overset.

I crossed by the lilacs and on through to the brook. A low gurgle greeted me, then it began its music over the stones.

Back again I continued to the upper wall where I took a snowmobile trail toward the Garland Cemetery. I had hoped to go the full way but when the trail ended I found the crust had softened enough so I slumped. I turned back toward home.

Going this way, the scenery was clear and lovely. I could see the ledges and rocks in the section of the Ice Caves. Overset Mountain was basking in the sun flooded valley.

In the places where the snow had vanished, the fields were dun, dead seas, lying becalmed, colorless and defeated.

In a hemlock standing by itself a flock of red-polls was resting and making their little chatter. I thought at first they were goldfinches. But as I approached they were startled and rose and wheeled in concert. After going through their usual evolutions they returned to the very place from which they took flight. They were near enough so that I could identify them by their red cap, pink breasts and blackish chins. As a descended the hill I saw them several times feeding on weeds, also. These were the first I had seen all winter.

The sky was an incredible sapphire blue. I paused to look at soft wads of lamb's wool heaped up at random. How powerful the mountains appeared against the horizon, growing bluer by the minute.

It was a pleasant invigorating walk a beautiful day's beginning.

Now it is ending for as I write this I can see through my kitchen window, mountains purple against a reddening sky, as I watch night steal away the last of the sun.

At the Hayes Homestead it was a sad but, very busy week. Doris' sons, grandchildren and their friends gathered there, some staying for the week.

Dolly Verrill and son, Wayne, who is home from California for a visit were callers at Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt.

I attended the Delta Kappa Gamma supper and meeting with Lettie Brooks, Dorothy Ross, and Lillian Curtis at South Paris Friday afternoon.

Ruth Collins, sister of Rena Curtis, is spending the week with her. Other visitors have been: Saturday, Stephen and Colista Cogswell, Stephen, Jr., wife Kim and two children, Karen Green, all of Freeport; Sunday, Alfred and Marie Curtis, son Fred, Buckfield; Evelyn Heikkinen, Mexico.

AMERICAN LEGION

Fifty Legion, Auxiliary members and guests enjoyed a delicious oyster stew supper Wednesday evening, Feb. 27, at the Mundt-Allen Post, Bethel. After cookies and ice cream, Milton Imman, of West Paris, showed some of the most beautiful scenery of Alaska in a two hour series of slides, which he took on one of his recent visits. Thanks to Milt and Miriam.

Tuesday evening, March 12, in honor of March being Legion birth-day month, a supper will be held at the hall for members, Auxiliary and guests. Social hour 6:30 with the lunch following.

In another matter, the Bethel Legion Hall seems rather quiet except on the Thursday night gathering of game party players or an occasional supper or hall rental as the Legion doesn't tout their own horn very loud, but it will probably surprise citizens and potential Legion members as to the behind the scenes activities in the form of outright monetary donation or assistance in other ways which are performed by the Legion.

Some, but not all are listed below: American Heart Association, Eagle Scout project donation, Boys State candidates, Ride-A-Thon for retarded children, Oratorical Contest, Maine Blind Camp, Statue of Liberty fund, flag pole at Maine Veterans Cemetery, Special Olympics, Togos Christmas Party for Veterans, donation for fire loss of home, Little Red Schoolhouse Association (for deaf), free hall use for donated food program, also fingerprinting children and blood

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Stephanie Thurston who gave so much of herself to each of us

"Goodbye, till morning come again,
We part, if part we must, with pain,
But night is short and hope is sweet,
Faith fills our hearts, and wings our feet,
And so we sing the old refrain,
Goodbye, till morning come again."

"Goodbye, till morning come again,
The thought of death brings weight of pain
But could we know how short the night
That falls, and hides them from our sight,
Our hearts would sing the old refrain,
Goodbye, till morning come again."

WEST PARIS SELECTMEN

The West Paris Board of Selectmen sent a letter last week to Chester Connell complaining about the unsightly condition of his yard in front of his Rte. 26 home, which suffered a fire last year. The selectmen claimed that his yard was an unauthorized automobile graveyard and a junkyard.

Mr. Connell met with the selectmen Thursday night at their regular session and told them some of the cars belonged to other people and should be picked up. The selectmen responded that they were on his property and therefore were his responsibility.

In other business last Thursday night, the selectmen received bids from trash haulers offering their services if and when the town sets up a dumpster site to replace the existing town dump. The "green-box" concept depends on the availability of capacity at the Auburn incinerator. The City of Auburn is expected to inform the town in June whether there is capacity to accommodate West Paris.

The selectmen took the bids under advisement without coming to a decision on which they preferred. The bids were tendered by: Andy Valley Refuse of Turner, ABC Rubbish, of Norway, Tri-State Rubbish of Mechanic Falls and G.A.N. Sanitation, of Bethel. Andy Valley Refuse has the contract for hauling the trash from the Greenwood/Woodstock transfer station to the Auburn incinerator.

The selectmen set March 14, 7:30 p.m. as the time for a public hearing on renewal of a liquor license for Katie's Kitchen.

BETHEL BOY SCOUT STRIVING FOR EAGLE RANK

As a community service project toward a rating as an Eagle Scout, one of Bethel's 14 year old citizens is building a screen house for the folks at the Bethel House.

This ambitious project requires quite a sum of money in the eyes of a 14-year-old. The ground work has been well done and project "Eagle" is to begin in April.

If one would like to help buy 10 pounds of nails, or a couple of 2x4's, please contact Bethel's Scoutmaster Raymond Harrington, Harrington, 824-2956.

FORMER BETHEL MAN HAS APPOINTMENT IN TEXAS

Dr. John P. Howe III, formerly vice chancellor and academic dean at the University of Massachusetts, has accepted a position at the University of Texas. There he will be president of its Health Science Center in San Antonio.

Dr. Howe attended Gould Academy, and is a graduate of Amherst, Boston University School of Medicine, Harvard Business School and worked two years at Peter Bent Brigham under a cardiology fellowship.

"Judd," as he was known in Bethel, is the son of John P. Howe II of Rockport, Mass., and the late Phyllis Howe.

COMMUNITY BAND & CHORUS MEET TUESDAY EVENINGS

The Bethel Community Band and Chorus invite you to participate in an evening of fun and music every Tuesday evening from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The Community Band meets from 6:30 to 7:45 p.m. Although it is a small group, they have already had performances at some of the area nursing homes and look forward to putting on an Adult-Ed spring concert, more nursing home engagements and a possible Mollycoddle day performance.

If you used to play "years ago" and would like to try it again, this is the perfect chance. New members are encouraged to come. If you feel that you are a little "rusty," don't worry about it—it all comes back faster than you might think!

Community Chorus—if it's singing that you would like to do, Community Chorus is a great place to do it. The Chorus meets on Tuesday evening from 8:00 to 9:30. This group has also had many performances at nursing homes and concerts and will be putting on an Adult-Ed spring concert as well. Future performances for this group also include area nursing homes, Christmas concerts, etc.

SUNDAY RIVER ACCESS ROAD MONITORED BY DOT

The Maine Department of Transportation monitored the traffic on the access road to Sunday River during the last week, according to State Representative Jeff Mills.

Transportation Commissioner Dana Connors ordered the monitoring study after meeting recently with State Senator Ed Ervin (D-Rumford) and Mills. The study will include possible recommendations regarding whether or not the road should be returned to the state for maintenance.

LOCAL SKI AREAS REPORT FOOT OF NEW SNOW

Just when local businesses that rely on skiers for winter business were pessimistically suggesting that they might have to call it a season, Mother Nature dumped a foot of snow on the area Monday night and Tuesday.

Both Sunday River and Mt. Abram reported a full 12 inches of new snow on their slopes, and Mt. Abram quickly reopened its facilities after being closed for one week.

Sunday River's Wende Gray reported snow accumulation of 90 inches so far this winter at the peak. A good winter will normally leave 150 inches by the end of the season, she said.

In both groups a variety of selections of music are performed—anywhere from show tunes to classics to marches (band) and more.

If you are interested in joining either of the above mentioned groups please contact the director, Harry Davis at 824-3164, the Adult-Ed office at 824-2780 or just come at the above stated times and try it out. It's really a lot of fun. Because these groups are Adult-Ed sponsored, there is an entry fee for each but the current members find it to be well worth it.

Letters to the Editor

March 4, 1985

To the Editor:

I have been a member of the BEARS for over 10 years. During this time I have seen growth of the Ambulance service. The town started with one ambulance in 1975 which was housed at the Fire Station. In 1981 the town purchased their second ambulance. Since there was not enough room at the fire station, the town fathers after much searching found that the SAD 44 Bus Garage was available. Now that is no longer available your board of selectmen have decided that it is time to build a place for training classes and to house the ambulances.

There will be a special town meeting on this subject in a short time. At this time I do not know what the projected total cost of this building is going to be.

It has been 10 years that the town has had an ambulance or ambulances and no place of their own to house them. The BEARS hope that at least the uncertainty of where we are going to be, will finally be put to rest with a permanent home.

In closing the BEARS would greatly appreciate it if there is anyone that would like to donate to the building fund. All donations are tax deductible. Any money that the BEARS can raise will cut the cost to the town. Make donations to: Gwen Currier, Treasurer, BEARS, Box 165, Bethel, Maine 04217.

WOODSTOCK TOWN MEETING

lowing the Down East Telephone Pioneer Club to use the town-owned "McInnis Lot" for a telephone museum was rejected. Voters concluded the site would cause traffic problems, and they also felt they did not know enough about the club and how it would set up and operate the museum to justify allowing it to use public property for a museum site.

But other articles that were expected to cause some disagreement passed handily. The town decided to purchase a one ton truck for a price not to exceed $20,000 though some voters felt it might be better to wait and get a bigger truck later on. Ken Kosela strongly supported the 1 ton truck. An appropriation of $5,000 to settle the boundaries of Lake Road in court if necessary was well-supported. Voters also agreed to change the town meeting date to the last Monday in March. Finally, most present seemed to favor raising SAD 44 Directors' salaries to $15 a meeting. Most other articles with the exception of a couple health and educational service appropriations passed as a matter of form.

Moderator Frank Bean also disarmed queries about the status of the transfer station by stating early on in the proceedings that State Senator Donald Twitchell had agreed to help the town to appeal the Board of Environmental Protection's decision by representing Woodstock before the Governor's office, the Senate, and the Maine House.

Thereafter, the Woodstock Town Meeting proceeded expeditiously.

WEST PARIS TOWN MEETING

the selectmen / assessors know what was happening in town.

Selectman Hugo Heikkinen agreed: "We can (currently) see if someone makes an addition on their house. But what if they put in a new bathroom or a second bathroom?"

Richard Roy could not see the sense in that argument. "Now they want to know if you've got a second bathroom in your house," he said.

Selectman Phillip Hyam tried to win the audience over: "If property assessments aren't up-to-date, some people aren't paying their fair share," he argued.

But voters were clearly afraid of giving officials any additional say over what a landowner could or could not do on his land. "It's just a way for a few people to get control over things," said Win Comley.

Other articles, however, were generally approved as they had been set out by the Board of Selectmen and the Budget Committee. So smoothly did things go for awhile that Moderator Imman commented, "We must have a very contented town." This came after voters approved a motion from the floor by the Budget Committee's Phelps Poland to increase selectmen's salaries 50 cents an hour, to $5.50.

In other matters, voters discontinued the "Frank Littlehale Road," with just three voters opposed. They also authorized the selectmen to sell the 1984 International dump tractor. Mr. Roy questioned Road Commissioner Robert Coffin as to the nature of the tractor's problems. "What's wrong with it?" queried Mr. Roy. "You name it," responded Mr. Coffin.

Ellis Ellingswood questioned the selectmen about the rationale for wanting to set aside a whopping $5,000 for a new sidewalk on Main Street, from Depot Street to the intersection of Maple Street. Selectman Heikkinen replied that the $5,000 would be the start of a sidewalk repair fund for all sidewalks in town. Said Mr. Ellingswood, "That explanation is too vague for me." The assembly apparently agreed, voting to pass over the article.

Thomas Elliott questioned the need for two articles setting aside money for the dump. One article added an additional $10,000 to the Solid Waste Capital Reserve Fund, which already had $23,500. The other set aside $25,000 to convert the dump into a "green box" transfer station, to be organized if the Auburn incinerator agrees to accept the town's trash. Mr. Elliott wondered if the cart were being placed before the horse: "Are we going to wind up in the same fix Woodstock is in?" (Woodstock and Greenwood inaugurated a transfer station last fall but have failed to get a state permit for it.)

Selectman Hyam assured voters the town would go ahead with the conversion if Auburn accepts the trash. Mary Ann Brown wondered what would happen to the present overfilled dump if the transfer station were not developed. Selectman Heikkinen joked that the present mounded dump could be turned into a ski slope.

Almost all other money articles passed without discussion, except for the smallest, which was granting an allotment of $50 to the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District. "What do they do?" Fred Swaney wanted to know. Moderator Imman replied, "For $50 they don't do much." But voters gave them the $50 anyway. They also gave $500 to the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District.

alongside it. The building, wood frame with clapboard exterior and metal roof, would sit on a concrete slab and have two separate forced hot air furnaces for the two different parts of the building.

Architect Bob Howe, of Portland, said the building is designed to be expandable in the future. Thus, instead of a peaked roof, he has utilized a shed roof with a false addition to give a flat-roof appearance.

NOTES FROM WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Old Houses

Old houses have the mystery Of other ages' joys, The mingling scent Of rose hips and Lilacs marking time, The furnishings worn comforting By friendship's interchange, And whiteness blending easily With winter's chaff disdain. The future takes them over And borrows of the best In hope that at Some distant date It too will still be left.

—Larry Billings

The above poem is self-explanatory. Historical preservationists are constitutionally enamored of old houses.

This week's Society meeting will feature a program on antiques by Curator Larry Billings. It will cover distinctive features of various types of antiques from furniture to advertising items.

The Society is deeply saddened by the passing of Dorothea Hooper. Dorothea was an interested and dedicated member of the society. She was knowledgeable on the history of Bryant Pond, and she showed great interest in all society activities. Her contribution will be greatly missed.

The Phone of the Future?

Looks pretty much like the phone of the present, doesn't it? Looks can be deceiving . . . especially since this phone could be linked to Contel's "TOTAL COMMUNICATION SYSTEM". This system includes ten exciting new ways to expand the capabilities of your Touch-Tone phone.

INTERCOM — This feature provides intercom capabilities for businesses or homes with more than one line. You can call internally by dialing just one or two numbers.

DISTINCTIVE RINGING — With the use of unique ringing patterns, external or internal calls are easy to differentiate.

CALL HOLD — Suddenly your telephone hook can become a valuable tool. With one click you can put your party on hold.

CONFERENCE CALLING — If you are talking to someone and you both want to talk to a third party on another line, you can put one party on hold, call the other party and all three of you can talk at the same time.

USER TRANSFER — This feature works much the same as conference calling, except that when the third party is reached you will just hang up your phone. You've transferred the call.

CALL WAITING — When you are talking on the line and you have a second incoming call, call waiting alerts you, you can put your party on hold and answer the other call.

CALL FORWARDING — If you are not going to be at your usual number and you don't want to miss any calls, this feature can forward all your calls to the new number that you program.

CALL PICK UP — With this feature you can answer an incoming call in your office even if it is on a line that doesn't appear on your phone.

BUSY TRANSFER — If you have two or more lines and you receive an incoming call while someone is on the line, that call will automatically transfer to another line.

CONVENIENCE DIALING — By just pressing two buttons you can call any of up to 30 numbers stored in your telephone.

It makes no difference whether you are a residential or business customer. Your present Touch Tone phone can be linked with any or all of the above features for a surprisingly low price.

Call 1-563-9920 for all the details.

Soon to be available in Bethel, West Bethel, Locke Mills, and North Norway.

For those of you who possess washers and dryers of the automatic variety, you cannot appreciate the thrills of the long windy days of March. However, most of you ladies have experienced laundry days done with the old fashioned wringer washer, now tell the truth don't you miss them? My husband and I still get our kicks from doing the weekly washing the old fashioned way. (No, I don't mean with a scrub-board.) I mean with an old wringer washer. All winter long we have done the laundry on Wednesday and Friday nights regardless of stormy weather or freezing rain. We have enough clothes so they just hang out there till it clears off! When you at last bring them in off the line, all the air in the old homestead is permeated with the freshest aromas ever and I'm willing to bet my old worn out booties that even the newest fabric softener cannot excel at this point! Coming in from the great outdoors where the temperature is really snapping to a kitchen filled with the scent of fresh baked bread and drying clothes is ever so nice! Tell the truth now, can't you just smell it?

Then take the other side of the coin for example — taking the clothes off a pulley line strung from hither to yon—can be a real test from God as the March winds have wrapped them several times about themselves. The snap pins are really snappy, the gusts of the Mt. Washington jet streams are flapping your delicate under-mentionables—and that funny little thing made out of plastic that you pulled the lines tighter with between the whites and the coloreds pops off onto the ground and lands in a bank of unmelted snow somewhere under the oil barrel.

Yes a real test of Yankee endurance—but soon the sunny days of spring will be upon us—and that is the time you can really enjoy yourself as you hang the wash (in sequence—from the largest sheets ending with a row of stockings!) You listen to the flock of spring birds watching you from the apple tree—the cat basks sleepily upon the railing and somehow you find you are not wishing to be stuck inside in an old laundry room, forcing an overload—just so you can get outdoors in the sun.

Sometimes the old ways are a little bit nicer!

Peace everyone and God Bless.

Anna Belanger returned from Androscoggin Valley Hospital last Wednesday where she underwent an inter-ocular transplant.

Timmy Chapman has been from door to door selling Boy Scout boxes of the most delicious candy.

Anita Ferrand traveled to North Conway with the Moultons one day last week and enjoyed a day's shopping in that area.

Kathy Corriveau was most courteous and took me to Bryant Pond, giving me a chance to call upon my mother, Elsie Bryant.

Dale, Tammy and Amy Kofthouse have moved to Bethel, in the old Dr. Young residence, across from Kelley's.

Winona Corriveau is a patient at this writing at the Androscoggin Valley Hospital in Berlin, in ICU, recovering from a heart attack. Winona and her husband had just moved back to their home here from Auburn, where he has been employed.

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the monthly meeting will be held this Thursday evening (March 7) in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. As this is the annual collector's night anyone having a crock, jug or jar from the past that he or she is willing to bring for display and discussion is cordially urged to do so. A slide tape lecture will also be featured on the topic of crocks, jugs and jars. Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend.

Beginning on March 13 the Society will again feature the remaining seven of the Adams Chronicles film series began last fall. This series which focuses on the lives and times of one of America's most distinguished families is sponsored through a grant from the Maine Humanities Council and the National Endowment for the Humanities. The film on Thursday, March 13, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House will be titled: "John Quincy Adams: Diplomat (1809-1815)." John Quincy Adams and his family have a firsthand experience with the British policy of search and seizure on their voyage to Russia. They are making this trip because Adams is to begin his assignment as Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States. The film depicts John Quincy secure in his role as diplomat to a Russian court which has allied itself with Napoleon against the British. In the United States, Henry Clay and his supporters are urging war with Great Britain, while President James Madison pursues a policy of neutrality. Despite the offer of an appointment to the Supreme Court, John Quincy stays on as Minister to Russia until the defeat of Napoleon; he then heads the American peace commission which negotiates the Treaty of Ghent, ending the War of 1812. The episode ends in Paris, Adams tells his family he has been appointed Minister to Great Britain. The film series is free and open to anyone interested.

Vacation was not the only activity enjoyed by the student body and staff at the Agnes Gray School during the month of February.

On Feb. 14, the entire school was treated to a musical fantasy, Rainbow City, produced by the 2nd grade. The idea for the play, the costumes, the dialogue, the scenery and the lyrics were written by the class with assistance from their teacher, Robert Van Nest. The melodies were also written by the 2nd graders with the help of a xylophone and the music teacher, Dan Barker.

The story involved a young boy, portrayed by Andy Leach, who gets lost in the woods on his way to his grandmother's. He meets an elf, Heather Brown, who takes him to Rainbow City to get the power to conquer the bears who are trying to get him. Good wins and all ends well.

The play was videotaped so the young actors and actresses all have had the chance to critique their own performance—a super job, enjoyed by all!

Good things come together and on Feb. 15, as part of our enrichment program, the entire school enjoyed the talents of The Old Grey Goose. Jeff McKee and Gregg Boardman spent the day performing at an assembly followed by individual classroom demonstrations. They presented traditional folk songs and country music of North America, with special emphasis on that of New England and the Maritimes. In a relaxed manner, they sang and played their instruments—banjo, melodeon, guitar, fiddle, mandolin, harmonica and bones. They even included a demonstration of their "fiddlesticks." These are two small sticks used by one player to tap a rhythm on the neck of the fiddle while the other player continues with the tune. Performances to preserve our heritage!

Dennis Nolin and Dave Lee of Bethel Cablevision met with the selectmen Friday morning to discuss cable TV for the town of Newry. Previously Bethel Cablevision had expressed a desire to extend the cable to Sunday River Ski Resort to take in the condominiums there. Bear River and Upper Sunday River citizens wanted the cable to take in the whole town. Nolin told the selectmen that 17 miles of cable would have to be strung. He said they would have to have 25 paying customers per mile to make a profit. This could be on an average for the town. Ten channels would be available for a basic cost of $9 per month per customer. Other channels would be available at an extra charge. Dave Lee will be making a house-to-house canvass throughout the town to see how many are interested in the service. Bethel Cablevision would pay Newry 2.5 percent of the revenue generated in the town. A public hearing will be held to bring this matter before the people. Later a special town meeting will be held to see if the voters will authorize the selectmen to sign a franchise with Bethel Cablevision. This is the same franchise signed by Bethel selectmen. In other matters at Friday morning's meeting the selectmen voted to notify all persons on whose property the town holds matured tax liens that unless the liens, cost and interest are paid, the town will foreclose on the liens and the property will be put up for sale by sealed bid. Amounts due will be figured and letters will be sent out notifying the owners of the amount due and the deadline for payment. Selectman Steve Wight met with Bethel Selectman Arlan Jodrey recently to discuss Newry's charge for use of Bethel Landfill. This matter will have to be approved by Bethel's entire board of selectmen.

Oliver Anderson and Sylvia Wight were guests at a luncheon at the women's Fellowship of the West Parish Congregational Church, Bethel, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Glover, Hollis, called on Amy and Roger Hanscom Saturday p.m. Verne is much improved since his surgery at the Maine Medical Center, in Portland, Jan. 23.

addition to the $5,000 earmarked for hydrants.

Voters also wanted more money for town recreation programs. At the suggestion of Recreation Director Gary Williamson, voters doubled the amount the Budget Committee had earmarked for those programs, from $2,000 to $4,000, in order to have a summer director. That is in addition to $3,500 for tennis court repair.

What to do with the windfall generated by the favorable settlement of the Comsat tax case was an intriguing question for voters. They decided to re-invest the $715,000 principal, and each year re-invest 25 percent of the interest. As for the remaining 75 percent to use it yearly to reduce the tax rate. They also put into the motion that any changes in disposition of the windfall could be made only with a two-thirds vote of the registered voters. The money has been in T-bills since the town received it last year. The selectmen will explore different investment approaches through discussions with bankers.

On the matter of accepting a portion of Farmer's Hill Road as a town way, voters did not give a "yes" or a "no." Instead, they authorized the selectmen and road commissioner to inspect it and see if it meets town specifications. If it does, the selectmen are empowered to accept it as a town way. If it doesn't, Ken Dixon, the petitioner, would be allowed to make

chase. Town officials Herbert Dunham and Phyllis Coolidge, Fire Chief Hugh Swan, Road Commissioner Raymond W. Seames all presented the town with reasons for the need for the new equipment.

The biggest issue of the meeting concerned the transfer station. The townspeople voted "no" on allowing the businesses within the town to have keys to the transfer station. The moderator read an opinion from an attorney, noting it would be against DEP regulations to allow the people to take trash to the dump without an attendant on the site.

Concerned businessmen George Stevens and Bob Coolidge both said they would be willing to act as dump attendants for themselves and they would sign an agreement that they would only dump trash and paper goods at the site. Herbert Dunham, first selectman, stood in for Selectman Wayne Redman, in charge of the dump, who was absent from the meeting, and told the businessmen, "You will never get a key, but if you tell us what hours that you want the dump open during the week, then maybe the attendant can be on-call or the dump hours can change. But this decision will have to be voted on by both Greenwood and Woodstock."

The townspeople voted "no" on authorizing the selectmen to sell the Locke Mills Elementary School building. Selectman Millett urged the town to keep the building for use of the town office. Mellen Kimball (plumber) spoke to the town meeting on the condition of the school. He mentioned the expense of converting the steam-heated building to a more practical heating system, and of a wall in the basement. He admitted that it would be expensive to upgrade the building, but worthwhile for the town to keep it. The voters authorized the selectmen and town clerk to explore the feasibility of moving the town office to the school, and to report back, including costs, to the 1986 annual town meeting. The town also authorized the selectmen to lease or rent the school building.

The Fire Department Auxiliary prepared baked beans, casseroles, salads, rolls, pies and coffee. About 40 people partook of the lunch.

Telstar skiing

Telstar cross-country skiers were impressive at the Maine Team tryouts Sunday at Black Mountain, with three boys and one girl being tapped for the state team, which will compete at the Eastern High School Championships March 16 and 17 at Lake Placid, N.Y.

With the entire Class A championship six man boys' team competing as individuals, three of the team made the selection. Scott Korhonen led the local boys, coming in 3rd overall, just 30 seconds from winner Dan Greenleaf, of Rumford. Mike Kelly, who had beaten Greenleaf in the Stan Fox Cup, took 6th overall, while Rick Bodwell took 10th. There are 12 members on the state boys' team.

Heidi Belanger, the only Telstar girl in the tryouts, placed 9th, earning herself a place on the 12-member state girls' team.

The showing by the Telstar contingent—placing four members on the state cross-country teams, was overshadowed only by Rumford, which placed five members on the teams. About 40 boys and 40 girls from all over the state, from classes A, B, and C, took part in the tryouts.

Ski Coach Bob Remington was pleased with the performance of his skiers, and pointed out that Telstar would have had one more member on the team—Bruce Barth—had he not broken a pole during the race. He nevertheless came in 15th.

Coach Remington described the conditions at Black Mountain as "hard and icy."

"It wasn't very fast," he said. In fact, the race had to be postponed for over two hours while the grooming machines went over the course three times in an effort to break up the crust. Nevertheless, the Rebel skiers handled it well, particularly Korhonen. "It was the best race he's ever had," commented the coach.

Not only did Telstar skiers do well, so did Coach Remington. He was selected to be one of the three coaches of the state team, along with Rich Kent of Rumford and John Atwood of Fryeburg. The Eastern High School Championships will be sponsored by Rossignol.

In the alpine team tryouts, held at Sunday River Ski Resort Monday, Telstar's Darcie Witter, the only local competitor, captured the number-four position on the 10-member girls' team that will represent the state later this month at Mt. Bromley in the Eastern Championships.

Witter was just a heartbeat out of first place in the giant slalom, recording runs of 79.4 seconds and 87.8 seconds, compared to the winner's time (an Oxford Hills student) of 79.3 and 83.28. When Witter's times for the slalom were averaged in, she dropped back to 4th overall.
